Const. Styles. Visitation

▶ Two York police officers embrace yesterday at the family visitation for Const. Garrett Styles at the Jerrett Funeral Home on Yonge Street. Today, the widow of the fallen officer will say goodbye in one of two eulogies for her husband during funeral services in Newmarket, her husband's hometown. More than 6,000 police officers from across North America are expected to attend the funeral, the second for a GTA police officer in the last six months.

RENE JOHNSTON/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Thousands of officers to mourn fallen constable

Today's funeral procession for Const. Garrett Styles, 32, will begin at about 10:30 a.m. from the Upper Canada Mall at Yonge Street and Davis Drive. Sixty to 100 GTA police officers on motorcycles will escort the hearse and the vehicles of Styles' family members. York Const. Kevin Ban, a close friend of Styles, will march immediately behind the cars and carry the fallen officer's cap. Thousands of officers, led by Styles' platoon mates, will march in formation behind Ban, south down Yonge Street toward the Ray Twinney Complex. Yonge Street will be closed from approximately 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., from Kingston Road to Eagle Street, to accommodate the procession. Styles' children — nine-week-old son Nolan and two-year-old daughter Meredith — are expected to attend the service with their mother Melissa, who has not spoken publicly since her husband's death.

Your best bets for a TRIST

Bathurst station ranked No. 3 on transit romance index ◐ Montreal stations ranked 1 and 2

Montreal officially has the most crush-worthy commuters in Canada.

By "officially," it means Craigslist researchers have decreed Montreal's Lionel-Groulx Metro station the most romantic transit stop in the country.

Toronto's Bathurst station trails well behind on the love-o-meter, pulling in only a 4.95 on the TRIST (train romance index score total) scale, compared to 8.95 for Lionel-Groulx, and landing in third place overall.

Montreal's Saint-Laurent was No. 2.

The survey, "Love on the Line," analyzes a year's worth of "Missed Connections" personal ads on Craigslist that mention individual subway, Metro or rapid transit stations in Montreal, Vancouver and Toronto.

The TRIST scale is tallied by dividing the number of Missed Connections mentions at each station or line by the daily ridership, and then multiplying by 10,000 and rounding to two decimal places.

Back in November, Craigslist declared Bathurst station as the most romantic in Toronto.

So where did Toronto's love train derail compared to Montreal?

"I would say Montrealers are a bit more laid back. We have a very relaxed lifestyle," suggested Matthew (last name withheld to protect his air of mystery), who is originally from Montreal but lives in Toronto and is among those romantically inclined TTC riders.

His post to a tall, plaid-hatted hottie at Bathurst — "You waved and smiled at me as you left the TTC wagon" — sadly came to no avail.

When told of Bathurst's No. 3 standing, TTC spokeswoman Jessica Martin replied: "Oh no!"

But she didn't begrudge Montrealers their mobile mack sessions.

"I think it's wonderful that people are finding romance on transit and whatever city you choose to do that in, I support it," said Martin, who has herself exchanged a few meaningful glances on the TTC but never been so bold as to act on them.

You enter the church and walk down the aisle, halting in front of a casket. Then you turn and take a seat on one of the hard, wooden pews. The funeral service begins.

Only it is not a funeral but the opening of Awake, a Fringe Festival theatre piece examining the experiences of Jamestown/Rexdale residents who have been touched by gun violence.

"It's almost unheard of to talk to someone from a priority (underprivileged) neighbourhood who doesn't have a story about a friend or a family member being shot and killed," said Chris Tolley, who began developing the project with fellow creator and director Laura Mullin three years ago.

Tolley and Mullin based the production on interviews they conducted with former and current gang members, drug dealers, arms runners, shooting victims, police officers and family members. The final production is a fusion of verbatim theatre, gospel, dancehall and hip-hop music.

"When we talked to people, their stories were so powerful," said Tolley. "We realized that there was no way anybody could write anything more powerful than that."

Carriage owner trampled by horses

A pair of spooked horses bolted on the CNE grounds Sunday and ran down their owner before being stopped in a wrangling reminiscent of the Wild West.

Police said the owner had been providing carriage rides at the Scotiabank CHIN picnic. The horses ran toward the Princes' Gates, where one of the horses was injured and the wagon flipped.

"It's quite a sight to see two horses coming at you pulling a big wagon with nobody on board."
CONST. MARISA VAN OVERBEEK

The owner was run over by the carriage when he rushed in front of the animals to release the harness, police said. He suffered broken ribs.

A police car was helping them corral the horses, said Const. Marisa Van Overbeek. The officer steered the animals to the north entrance of the Ricoh Coliseum where they almost stopped — but then climbed the stairs and kept moving.

Van Overbeek caught up with the horses and manoeuvred in front of them, slowing them down. Van Overbeek's colleague, Sgt. Kris McCarthy, climbed onto the cart and grabbed the reins. Other officers from the mounted unit grabbed the horses' harnesses. Finally, the animals halted.

Brothers create a living out of combat

Toronto siblings take their unique martial arts style and turn it into a business called 2X Entertainment

CONTRIBUTED

▶ James Mark, pictured, and Chris Mark are responsible for different aspects of their business, with James focusing on the entertainment side and Chris on teaching and spreading the XSD program.

PHOEBE HO
TORONTO@METRONEWS.CA

Two Toronto brothers are fighting their way to fame and success, one flying kick at a time.

They are the unsung heroes of action movies, providing visual eye candy and adding that extra oomph action buffs live for.

Chris and James Mark may not be household names, but their work has reached a wide audience. With stunt work and fight choreography in movies like Jumper, The Mummy 3, Kick Ass, and Scott Pilgrim vs. The World, the two martial artists have made a name for themselves in the industry.

Driving the brothers' surging popularity is how they combine traditional martial arts like karate, taekwondo, wushu and some kung fu moves, fused with gymnastics and acrobatics, and performed to a thumping musical beat. This unique martial arts style called Xtreme Martial Arts (XMA) was relatively unknown in Canada at the time, according to James.

"People were really interested in what we were doing because it's a very new style," he said. "It was very new to Canada, we were the first ones to bring it to Canada."

James and Chris started 2X Entertainment four years ago and have 20 performers under their wing that perform in commercials, film and TV, as well as live stage performances. They have also coined their specific style of martial arts Xtreme Skills Development (XSD), and are teaching it to anyone who wants to learn.

But it wasn't always easy.

For James, it was the decision to forgo a stable job as a financial planner to partake in a risky and unconventional career route.

And for Chris, it was his heart condition that held him back from martial arts when he was younger.

"I guess you could say I had a bit of drive in me," said Chris. "I kind of wanted to make up for what I didn't or wasn't able to do when I was younger."

A 12-year-old Toronto boy is facing several charges after allegedly keeping a loaded gun in his bedroom.

Police say the boy, who lives in the Lansdowne Avenue and Queen Street West area, had stored a loaded P-11 Luger 9mm handgun in his room.

His name cannot be released under the Youth Criminal Justice Act

The boy was arrested June 29 and the gun was seized by police.

Greeks disable Gaza-bound ship

Activists say armed coast guard officers boarded Canadian ship, soldiers took command of its bridge

The Greek coast guard has crippled a Canadian ship bound for Gaza, forcing it back to shore and ramming it against a cement pier, activists said yesterday.

Activists on board say the ship appears to be sinking and they are calling on Prime Minister Stephen Harper's government to intervene.

The Tahrir, bearing at least 30 Canadians, left a Greek port early last night and was boarded 15 minutes later by armed officers from the Greek coast guard.

Within an hour, the ship was back at another Greek port, where supporters of its mission were gathering.

"They arrived back to land into a location ... where the coast guard forced them to go to. Not the original dock," said Ehab Lotayef, a Montreal-based spokesman for the ship.

"They slammed it into the concrete, into the pier-side. At the beginning it wasn't obvious, but now there is big probability the boat is sinking. It got damaged in that slam. It's taking water, leaking diesel."

Lotayef said efforts were underway to get passengers off the boat.

"We are holding the Greeks responsible for all that — totally unjustified action by the Greek government, arm-twisted by the Israelis," he said.

"It is a setback but it's not the end of the road."

CIA analyst hunted bin Laden for nearly a decade

After U.S. Navy SEALs killed Osama bin Laden, the White House released a photo of U.S. President Barack Obama and his cabinet inside the Situation Room, watching the raid unfold. Hidden from view of that now-famous photo was a career CIA analyst. In the hunt for the world's most-wanted terrorist, there may have been no one more important. His job for nearly a decade was finding the al-Qaida leader.

"John" (his middle name) oversaw the collection of clues that led the agency to a fortified compound in Abbottabad, Pakistan.

He examined and re-examined every aspect of bin Laden's life. How did he live while hiding in Sudan? With whom did he surround himself while living in Kandahar, Afghanistan? What would a bin Laden hideout look like today?

The CIA had a list of potential leads, associates and family members who might have access to bin Laden.

"Just keep working that list bit by bit," one senior intelligence official recalls John telling his team. "He's there somewhere. We'll get there." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Knack for the job

"John's" ability to spot the importance of seemingly insignificant details gave him a particular knack for hunting terrorists.

Egyptians riot after cops released

Police had been charged with killing protesters during uprising Hundreds cut traffic for six hours on highway

Hundreds of Egyptians attacked a courtroom in Cairo yesterday, scuffled with security guards, and blocked a major highway for hours after the court ordered the release of 10 policemen charged with killing protesters during the country's uprising.

The unrest added to tensions already running high in Egypt over the ruling military council's failure to hold accountable security forces involved in killing protesters during the uprising that toppled former president Hosni Mubarak. Nearly five months later, only one policeman has been convicted in the deaths of more than 846 people killed in a government crackdown on protesters. He was tried in absentia.

After the riots broke out, Egypt's prosecutor general, Mahmoud Abdel-Meguid, ordered the court's decision overturned in a clear attempt to defuse anger. However, a lawyer for the victims' families said such a decision is "illegal" because the prosecutor general has no authority over the court.

GETTY IMAGES FILE

▶ Riots erupt in Egypt.

"They are trying to deceive the people to pacify them," said the lawyer Amin Ramez. "The policemen are now at army headquarters seeking protection. If people saw them, they would tear them apart."

Ali el-Ganadi, a father of one of the victims, said he received a promise from the prosecutor general to enforce the annulment of the court's order and bring the officers back to jail.

Relatives of slain protesters, who were involved in the unrest, cut traffic on the highway from Cairo to the city of Suez, leaving hundreds of cars lined up.

After clearing the highway, protesters moved to inside Suez, according to one of the protesters, Ahmed Khafagi. He said traffic was halted inside two main squares in the city and thousands of people are holding protests and chanting slogans.

17 The policemen were charged with killing 17 people and injuring more than 350 in the city of Suez during the 18-day uprising that ended Feb. 11. The court released seven of them on bail and postponed their trials to Sept. 14. Three are tried in absentia.

Suez was a flashpoint of violence during the uprising, with many deadly confrontations between protesters and security forces. Footage posted on YouTube showed policemen at the top of a police station in Suez main square opening fire on protesters.

The release of the policemen looked likely to fuel plans for a one-million-man rally Friday to push for fair trials of former regime members including top security officials suspected of giving the orders to shoot protesters.

Inmate files lawsuit over porn ban

A Michigan jail inmate says he is being subjected to cruel and unusual punishment because he can't have pornography.

In a handwritten lawsuit, 21-year-old Kyle Richards claims his civil rights are being violated at the Macomb County Jail.

Richards said denying his request for erotic material subjects him to a "poor standard of living" and "sexual and sensory deprivation."

The Michigan Department of Corrections tells The Detroit News that prisons allow some pornographic material, though it's banned at the jail.

The American Civil Liberties Union says prisons have a lot of leeway.

Did princess try to flee?

Reports say Charlene bolted after rumours Albert sired another love child

News that her new husband would be undergoing another paternity test just days after their fairytale wedding turned Charlene Wittstock into a runaway princess bride, French media report.

The weekend marriage of the South African former Olympic swimmer and Prince Albert II, heir to the throne, went ahead only at the last minute, various reports said.

French magazines reported confirmation by palace sources that Albert, 53, will undergo DNA tests because of claims that he has fathered another illegitimate child. He already has a son and daughter from previous affairs.

The rumours about Princess Charlene, 33, started just days before the wedding when the French newspaper L'Express reported the bride tried to bolt three times: Once during the Monaco Grand Prix; another time in Paris when she holed up at the South African Embassy; and a week before the wedding when her passport was confiscated at Nice airport.

Princess Charlene's father, Mike Wittstock, said his daughter was shopping in Paris with her mother, not seeking asylum.

The palace has also denied the allegations.

"There is no child," said lawyer Thierry Lacoste. "I heard everything about the child — white, black, who has been born, not yet born. It has to stop."

Will and Kate enjoy royal soaking in P.E.I.

Couple face off in dragon boat race Prince William practises 'waterbirding' search-and-rescue exercise

When most people envision a day on the water, it doesn't generally involve full-blown dragon boats or a multimillion-dollar piece of military hardware.

Of course, most people aren't the future king and queen of England.

Prince William traded navy blue for drab olive and the luxury of a landau for the throb of a Sea King helicopter yesterday as he donned a flight suit and practised a quintessentially Canadian manoeuvre — landing on the water.

Later, he and Kate, the Duchess of Cambridge, grabbed paddles and life vests for a dragon boat showdown that left William a fairly drenched victor and his wife with more than one faceful of paddle spray — a cautionary tale about sitting in the stern.

"They ... seem to be enjoying themselves"
SHIRLEY HENNESSEY, 86, SAID OF THE ROYAL COUPLE

That might be why they seemed utterly unfazed when the traditional Maritime weather showed up, sprinkling both the royals and the gathered throngs of fans and well-wishers as they shook hands, sampled lobster, participated in a traditional smudging ceremony and watched Acadian dancing and beach volleyball.

William kicked off the couple's afternoon on the water quite literally.

Swapping his crisp jacket and tie for a jumpsuit and helmet, he climbing into the co-pilot's seat aboard a grey Sikorsky CH-124 and plopped it down repeatedly on the surface of Dalvay Lake, near the Gulf of St. Lawrence on the edge of Prince Edward Island.

He spent nearly an hour perfecting the Canadian-made "waterbirding" move — sometimes turning circles on the water like a giant mechanical duck, windshield wipers clearing the spray from the windscreen, or performing a touch-and-go exercise that at times pushed the water levels nearly to the windows. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mummy in waiting?

Four simple words reportedly uttered by Kate have sparked a firestorm of speculation by international media and gossip rags alike that the royal couple are planning on starting a family — or that they may have begun already.

A seemingly innocuous response to a bit of chit-chat with a fan has generated scores of headlines proclaiming the duchess a "mummy in waiting."

David Cheater, a British expat now living in Quebec, met Kate during a walkabout and her comments to him, as reported by the Daily Telegraph newspaper, formed the basis for a story about Kate's desire to have children.

"When Mr. Cheater wished the duchess well in her efforts to start a family, she thanked him saying: 'Yes, I hope to,'" the Telegraph reported.

Fox News Twitter account hacked

Fake tweets about Obama assassination leaves news organization red-faced FoxNews.com issues apology

GETTY IMAGES FILE

▶ Barack Obama

Several false but shocking tweets about the assassination of U.S. President Barack Obama resulted in an embarrassing Fourth of July yesterday for the news organization frequently accused of inciting anti-Obama sentiment.

Hackers broke into a Fox News Twitter account in the early morning hours of U.S. Independence Day to falsely tweet that the president had been shot and killed while campaigning in Iowa.

"@BarackObama has just passed. The President is dead. A sad 4th of July, indeed. President Barack Obama is dead," read the first tweet.

The hackers went on to report in another dispatch that Obama had been "shot twice in the lower pelvic area and in the neck; shooter unknown. Bled out."

More faux details were provided in subsequent rogue tweets, including the purported site of the assassination — "Ross's Restaurant in Iowa" — before the hacker signed off by wishing U.S. Vice-President Joe Biden good luck as the nation's new president.

The tweets remained visible on the Fox News politics Twitter account, with almost 35,000 followers, for more than six hours after the first one appeared.

A group calling itself The Script Kiddies took responsibility for the tweets, replacing the account's profile picture at one point with its own logo and a description that read "H4CK3D BY TH3 5CR1PT K1DD3S."

A red-faced Fox News released a statement about the hoax. "The hacking is being investigated, and FoxNews.com regrets any distress the false tweets may have created."

No need to apologize, according to several people who commented on the Fox News website and expressed regret that the tweets were false.

"That's okay Fox, no 'distress' here. It would have been a positive relief if true," someone with the handle AlCashier wrote.

"If only!!! My dreams dashed!!!" another wrote.

French proposals not solution, S&P warns

Standard & Poor's, a leading credit ratings agency, warned yesterday that Greece would be considered to be in default if banks rolled over their holdings in the country's debt as proposed by an association of French banks because both proposed options offer "less value than the promise of the original securities." S&P's position could wreak havoc on Europe's attempts to deal with the Greek debt crisis, especially if rivals Moody's and Fitch come to the same conclusion.

June car sales spike

Top sellers

- Ford Canada once again claimed the top spot with June sales that increased six per cent. That was its best June since 1989.
- General Motors Canada, Canada's second-best selling automaker last month, said sales grew 12 per cent from a year ago, led by its Chevrolet Cruze.

Some of Canada's top automakers are reporting a strong rebound in sales last month after a weak performance in May.

Canada's top three automakers — Ford, General Motors and Chrysler of Canada — saw their sales improve dramatically on an annual basis. Ford and GM also saw a bounce from weak sales activity reported in May, when the industry recorded a 3.8 per cent drop in sales.

Automakers have been reporting larger increases in car sales for most of this year due to soaring fuel costs.

CLOVER LEAF®

Love the taste every time.

YES. IT'S 100% QUALITY TUNA. EVERY CAN, EVERY TIME.

Clover Leaf Seafoods is proud to be a longtime, trusted brand in Canada. We value the loyalty that our consumers and retail customers have placed in Clover Leaf. We respect your trust, and we treat it responsibly.

As an industry leader, Clover Leaf has set the standard in quality seafood. But our commitment doesn't stop there. Clover Leaf is also deeply committed to leading the way in preserving the world's aquatic resources. No single initiative is more important, or more central, to Clover Leaf's business philosophy than ensuring responsible fishing practices and management of the fisheries from which we obtain our seafood. This is not only important to the environment and our consumers, but it is critical for our business as well.

Sustaining Fisheries, a focal point of our overall Corporate Responsibility Program, is a key driver in how we conduct business around the globe.

At the heart of these efforts in tuna fisheries management is our support of the mission, work and resolutions of the International Seafood Sustainability Foundation (ISSF), a global partnership among leaders in science, the tuna industry, and the World Wildlife Fund (WWF), one of the world's leading conservation organizations.

ISSF's mission is to undertake science-based initiatives for the long-term sustainability of tuna stocks, reduction of bycatch, reduction of illegal, unregulated and unreported fishing, and promotion of ecosystem health. Clover Leaf, a proud founder of ISSF, is at the forefront of seafood sustainability. We are committed through our leadership and our actions to the effective management of ocean resources for generations to come. Please visit www.iss-foundation.org

> "Quality and taste every time" is more than our mantra—it's our commitment to you and future generations.

SEEMED LIKE A GOOD IDEA AT THE TIME

SHE SAYS ...

JESSICA NAPIER
METRO

We all make mistakes. The chances of making those mistakes increase exponentially when alcohol is involved. In fact, the decisions you make during a night out on the town are almost exclusively regrettable.

Here are just a few of the things that you would never, ever do in real life (read: sober) but that seem like a really good idea at 2 a.m.

• Ask the DJ to play an obnoxious pop track from the mid-2000s — think Gwen Stefani's Hollaback Girl — and scream "THIS IS MY JAM" at anyone within earshot.

• Wear sunglasses indoors. Convince yourself that sunglasses are a fun prop and that wearing them at night will make people think you are a hilariously zany individual. If Corey Hart can do it, so can you.

• Get into a heated discussion about religion/politics/anything of a sensitive nature. Assume you are correct no matter how outlandish your point is. There is no reasoning with someone under the influence of drunk logic.

"Walk home barefoot through the city streets. Hepatitis be damned; your feet really hurt from wearing cheap heels all night long and five kilometres isn't really that far of a walk anyway."

• Order a pitcher of beer … for yourself. When the server asks: "What type of beer?" Respond with: "Surprise me."

• Get all confessiony and tell your best friend about that time you hooked up with her ex-boyfriend/brother/dad.

• Purchase a large pulled pork poutine with extra gravy or some other calorie-laden late-night snack that you will inevitably spill all over yourself. Not that it matters. One of your friends accidently poured a double vodka cranberry down your back an hour ago.

• Send (what you think are) nonchalant text messages to that guy you went on a few dates with back in May. You didn't really like him and it didn't go anywhere, but for some reason you feel the need to see what he's up to right now.

• Walk home barefoot through the city streets. Hepatitis be damned; your feet really hurt from wearing cheap heels all night long and five kilometres isn't really that far of a walk anyway.

• Facebook creep your ex. Wind up in a shameful spiral of despair before falling asleep on your keyboard. Wake up at 5:30 a.m. to a photo album titled I Luv U Babe featuring him and his new girlfriend, who you suspect is at least five years younger than you.

• Decide that the remedy for nausea is not water but tequila.

So be sure to proceed with caution on your next night of summertime revelry. Engage in any one of these activities and you will guarantee yourself a miserable morning after.

Worth mentioning

TORONTO. It's part cathedral, part parking meter and part Cadillac. And it's the latest invention out of Great Britain.

It's called the AutoWed Wedding Machine — a kind of vending machine for wedding ceremonies.

It's the brainchild of Sam Lanyon, a 30-year-old electronics engineer.

It's a simple process: You put in $1 and the machine begins to play a wedding march. Then it asks you what kind of ceremony you want: Gay, straight, lesbian or best friend forever.

Once you have selected the type of wedding, AutoWed takes over. If you agree to marry, you press the No. 1 on a computer keyboard. If you don't agree, you press 2 for "escape." After you exchange vows, it dispenses two plastic rings. Once the rings have been exchanged, a voice congratulates you and instructs you to kiss.

With the ceremony over, the vending machine dispenses a receipt with your names on it and asks you to hold on to it. Lanyon admits the ceremony is not legally binding, but designed only as a novelty.

Not the best idea to invite him to lunch

Joey Chestnut scarfed down 62 hotdogs to win his fifth consecutive Fourth of July hotdog-eating contest at Coney Island — the equivalent of about 20,000 calories in 10 minutes.

It wasn't a personal best for the 27-year-old nicknamed Jaws, but it was enough to out-eat second-place finisher Patrick Bertoletti by nine wieners. Chestnut of San Jose, Calif., won $10,000 and the coveted mustard-yellow belt.

"I feel great!" he said, sweat pouring down his face after the contest, adding he was going to drink a lot of water and avoid hotdogs for a few days.

This year, for the first time, the annual contest in front of Nathan's Famous fast food stand was broken into two divisions, one for men and one for women.

Sonya Thomas, known as the "Black Widow" of competitive eating, won with 40 downed dogs, earning her $10,000 and her own pink champion's belt.

Both Thomas and Chestnut broke world records in 2009; he with 68 and she with 41.

Horrible Bosses with a twist

Charlie Day plays a meek dental hygienist who doesn't want to be hit on by his boss, played by Jennifer Aniston Believable? You be the judge

HEIDI PATALANO
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN NEW YORK

Charlie Day, best known for his illiterate, glue-sniffing character on FX's It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia, has been put in the unlikely position of explaining why being pursued for a sexual liaison by a character resembling Jennifer Aniston is an unpleasant prospect. It's not an easy job.

"Most men don't cheat on their wives. Not all, but close," he offers rather sheepishly. His character in the comedy Horrible Bosses is a dental hygienist for Aniston's man-eating dentist. Devoted to his fiancé, Day's character Dale is terrified by his boss' blackmailing seduction. As the logic of the film goes, he and his buddies, played by Jason Sudeikis and Jason Bateman, decide to kill Dale's boss. Dark as it may seem, Bosses isn't afraid to cover the controversial topics.

"I don't think anything is too taboo to make funny," says Day.

"Murder is a terrible thing. It ruins people's lives. But set against this backdrop, in this idiotic light with these guys that have no business trying to commit a murder go about it, then it becomes a comedy. The things aren't inherently funny themselves. It's how you tell the joke."

That's where the overlap lies between Horrible Bosses and It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia.

He's just wrapped production on the seventh season of the sitcom on which no topic — from abortion to crack smoking — is too crooked or bizarre.

"Managing to fly under the radar enough so that we don't lose our street cred but be a big enough hit that we're actually a very successful show has been a really nice balance," says Day. The next season premieres in September.

Bearded humour

Is facial hair funny?

"Having a beard just makes me look older," says Charlie Day. "Sometimes when I shave it off I feel like I still look like I'm 15. Mac (on Sunny) kind of grows his beard a little bit longer this season. He's definitely funnier, but I've definitely seen some unfunny people with beards. I don't know that it makes people unfunny. I just know that there are plenty of people who grow beards who still remain completely humourless."

Herzog digs deep in Cave

Newest doc is director's first and will possibly be his only film in 3D

PHIL BROWN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

▶ Cave of Forgotten Dreams sees director Werner Herzog exploring within France's rarely visited Chauvet Cave.

Over 50 films into his career, Werner Herzog is undeniably one of the most masterful filmmakers alive and a rare beast who nimbly jumps from documentaries to fiction.

Having recently coaxed a particularly deranged performance out of Nicolas Cage (even by his standards), Herzog returned to non-fiction with Cave Of Forgotten Dreams, a hypnotic documentary about the remarkable ancient paintings in Southern France's Chauvet Cave. Ever experimental, the film was Herzog's first in 3D.

"I'm still a skeptic of 3D, but the moment that I saw the cave and how the paintings used the drama of the walls, there was no choice," the director told Metro, adding, "but if I look back, none of my other films would be right in 3D."

Cave paintings have been a lifelong obsession for Herzog, who leapt at the chance to make the film. Unfortunately, the Chauvet Cave is a very fragile environment and few people are allowed to enter, requiring some careful negotiation by the director.

"It was complicated and culminated in a meeting between the French Minister of Culture and me," explained Herzog.

"He asked, 'Why shouldn't it be a French filmmaker to make this film?' So, I proposed to work as an employee at a French Ministry of Culture for a fee of one Euro. Then they could show the film in 30,000 French film classes for free. That was kind of helpful," he deadpanned.

Like all of Herzog's work, the film required an incredibly difficult and at times painful production (this is the man who once had his crew pull a steamship over a mountain), but the director hopes that the behind the scenes stories will not overshadow the actual movie.

"The journey doesn't count," he claimed. "Who cares if we like each other or how deep we had to plunge down into a cave. That's not interesting. It's only what you see on the screen."

Conan O'Brien can't stop

New documentary captures talk show host's ups and downs during the creation of his live touring show

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

SUBMITTED

▶ Conan O'Brien

Rodman Flender says the hardest part of making Conan O'Brien Can't Stop, a movie about his pal Conan O'Brien, was detaching himself from their friendship.

"All of us experience terrible disappointments in our lives and careers," he says. "We all get jobs and lose jobs but very few of us do it on the front page of the New York Times. So as his friend I wanted to be there for him. However, as a filmmaker I wanted to detach myself. That was difficult for me."

The pair began to document the creation of O'Brien's live touring show, a two-hour, all-singing, all-dancing way for the talk show host to thank the fans who stood by him as he was unceremoniously sacked as Jay Leno's replacement on the Tonight Show.

"I wanted to capture the process of putting this tour together," says Flender, "to capture Conan at this moment in time, at such a crossroads in his career. To see how the tour evolved and the nuts and bolts of the tour in a kind of Judy Garland Mickey Rooney, 'Hey let's put on a show' kind of way.

"I never wanted it to be a promotional piece for Conan. I just wanted to capture, in the true, old-school direct cinema style, whatever happened."

In that spirit the movie reveals an unvarnished portrait of the star.

"People have asked me, 'Is this the real Conan O'Brien?' Yes. But so is the guy you see on TV every night. What you see in the movie is the real Conan O'Brien without a script.

"And like a real person he has real feelings and he has moods and he is kind and generous and he gets tired and cranky at the end of a long day and that is what I think it is to be a human being. It's interesting to me that so many people have thought, 'Oh wow, it's such a negative portrait of him,' but he doesn't do drugs, he doesn't abuse anybody."

O'Brien's down-to-earth side is evident in the off-stage footage, particularly in his interactions with fans.

"He really wants to be kind to everybody and really show his appreciation to his fans and everyone who has done so much and stuck by him," says Flender. "But there is a toll that takes. He is a human being after all. He's not a machine."

Hobo with a Shotgun

Genre: Thriller
Director: Jason Eisener
Stars: Rutger Hauer, Brian Downey, Gregory Smith, Molly Dunsworth
◍◍◍½

To describe Hobo with a Shotgun as being over the top would be like calling a beaver furry.

Directed by Halifax's Jason Eisener, it's like no other Canadian movie you've seen, and that's OK.

The Hobo (Rutger Hauer) rides the rails into Scum Town, like Clint Eastwood's Man With No Name, looking to buy a lawnmower. Maybe he can start his own gardening business: "You grow it, we cut it." But Hobo can't close his eyes to the carnage around him.

A sadistic capitalist named Drake (Brian Downey), and his stooge sons Slick (Gregory Smith) and Ivan (Nick Bateman) are terrorizing Scum Town by beheading people in the street.

Only Hobo and his new shotgun stand in their way. The lawns will have to wait.

Extras include commentary with Eisener and Hauer, deleted scenes, an alternate ending, video blogs and featurettes. ◍ PETER HOWELL

Of Gods and Men

Genre: Drama
Director: Xavier Beauvois
Stars: Lambert Wilson, Michael Londsdale
◍◍◍◍½

A transcendent drama of uplift and inspiration, Of Gods and Men reveals the cavernous divide between heaven and Earth.

Set during the Algerian Civil War of the early 1990s, it's the fact-based-story of seven Christian monks from France, who live harmoniously amongst Muslims in a mountainous village.

When tensions erupt between the Algerian government and Islamic fundamentalists, foreigners are told to leave. The monks' leader, Brother Christian (Lambert Wilson), wants to stay, despite the danger, as the villagers desperately need assistance. ◍ PETER HOWELL

The Company Men

Genre: Drama
Director: John Wells
Stars: Ben Affleck, Tommy Lee Jones, Kevin Costner, Chris Cooper

This drama about corporate downsizing has an A-list cast that includes four Oscar winners: Ben Affleck, Tommy Lee Jones, Chris Cooper and Kevin Costner.

The film, written and directed by John Wells, speaks to an issue that is as current as a newspaper's front page, and plays as almost a companion piece to Up in the Air, Jason Reitman's like-minded film about workers squeezed by a bad economy.

In this case though, the workers are suits who considered themselves bullet-proof.

It's meat-and-potatoes drama, but The Company Men depicts harsh reality truthfully. ◍ PETER HOWELL

Canadian applicants lose out on chance to join Team Sheen

Actor Charlie Sheen has chosen his "tiger blood" intern and he's not a Canadian.

The fired Two and a Half Men star tweeted last week that Team Sheen welcomed Josh Burstein as its new social media intern. The Los Angeles resident, who works for the Israeli government's economic mission to the U.S., beat 82,000 applicants.

One of them was Sepy Bazzazi, 25, who works in social media for Earls Restaurants in Vancouver. He tweeted his congratulations to Burstein.

Phil Pallen of Belleville, Ont., who was one of the final 50 candidates, ditched his bid last month and accepted an offer to work for American Idol host Ryan Seacrest instead.

Burstein tweeted "Tiger blood, coarsening (sic) through my veins. Excited for the opportunity!"

Neo-soul artist Jill Scott brought a sassy new look, new music and a surprise performance with soul-singer Anthony Hamilton on the second day of the Essence Music Festival.

Scott performed some of her timeless hits Saturday evening such as Long Walk, and The Way and drew heavily on tunes from her new release, The Light of the Sun.

She delighted fans when Hamilton joined her on stage to perform their current hit, So In Love, which has helped push the new album to No. 1 — her first release to do so.

Scott was among the headliners for Saturday's festival, which also featured performances by El Debarge, Chaka Khan and the night's closer, rapper Kanye West.

A career-first for Taylor Swift

Taylor Swift recently postponed a show for the first time in her career.

Swift had to postpone Saturday night's sold-out show at the Yum Center in Louisville under doctor's orders because of an illness.

She tweeted the bad news to fans: "This is my first time having to do this. I'm so, so sorry."

Within 20 minutes, hundreds of followers had responded with get-well wishes, which were already among the most popular international trends on Twitter for the day.

Swift postponed the show until Oct. 11. She's due for a short break before returning to the road in Charlotte, North Carolina, on Friday in support of her multi-platinum Speak Now album.

Choice, not money, the key to happiness

New Zealand researchers find that self-expression and life options are more important than having money

CELIA MILNE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Money doesn't buy happiness. But what does? According to a large worldwide study, having choices in life and being able to express yourself are the most important ingredients in being happy.

Researchers in New Zealand collected data from all around the world on what factors contribute to well-being. Altogether, the studies included 420,599 people from 63 countries over several decades, so the science behind their results is very strong.

"The main finding is that money does not buy happiness and well-being," says Dr. Ronald Fischer, lead author, in an email to Metro.

"Choice and autonomy are more directly related to happiness than having lots of money. Autonomy provides you with the options to pursue meaning in your life, to find activities that stimulate and excite you and keep you active," explains Fischer, who is a senior lecturer in psychology and Fellow of the Centre for Applied Cross-Cultural Research at Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand.

He and colleagues were surprised by the finding that choice and self-expression are more important than money, especially once you have your basic needs met.

"We did not predict we would find these clear patterns when we started and none of our friends or colleagues would have bet on this."

Job searchers take note.

"People may not need to go for the highest paying job, but rather focus on something that fulfills them personally and gives them greater happiness and satisfaction in their life," he says.

He warns that too much of anything is bad.

"Having too many choices or too much autonomy can lead to doubt about what to do, and regret that you aren't making the right choices."

The study was published by the American Psychological Association.

Yoga pose. Head to knee forward bend/Janu Sirsasana

BODYISMYOGA

What you do:

1. Sit on the floor with your legs straight in front of you. Inhale, bend your right knee and draw the heel back towards your perineum. Rest your right foot sole against your inner left thigh and lay the outer right leg on the floor with the shin at a right angle to the left leg.
2. Press your inner right hand against your inner right groin and your left hand on the floor beside the hip. Exhale and turn the torso slightly to the left, lifting the torso as you push down on and ground the inner right thigh. Line up your navel with the middle of the left thigh.
3. Reach out with your right hand to take the inner left foot, thumb on the sole. Inhale and lift the front torso, pressing the top of the left thigh into the floor and extending through the left heel. Use the pressure of the left hand on the floor to increase the twist to the left. Reach your left hand to the outside of the foot.
4. Exhale and extend forward from the groins, not the hips. As you descend bend your elbows to the sides
5. Lengthen forward into a comfortable stretch. The lower belly should touch the thighs first, the head last. Stay in the pose 1-3 minutes. Repeat on the other leg.

TLP™ IS A "NEW" NON-SURGICAL SCIENTIFIC APPROACH FOR MEN AND WOMEN TO HELP CONTROL THINNING HAIR, BALDNESS AND PROBLEMS ASSOCIATED WITH THE SCALP.

This cold laser creates a soft halo of light around the scalp. Laser hair therapy is a medically tested, safe and proven method using low level laser energy, or "soft cold" laser light to effectively treat and control problem hair loss and encourage new growth.

WILL IT WORK FOR ME?

Laser Therapy is equally effective for both men and women. Most participants will see tangible response within a short period of time after commencing treatment, with results enhanced as the program continues.

In fact, past studies have shown a 93% increase in hair among the respondents using Cold Laser Therapy. For those clients not able to come to our clinic on a regular basis, a home laser program is available.

During your initial consultation and assessment, it will be determined if you are a good candidate for Laser Therapy. If so, your results are assured and backed by our exclusive guarantee.

Worry-Free Travel Is Just A Few Clicks Away

Travelling more than once a year?

If you take more than one trip a year, chances are it's cheaper to buy a full-year travel policy than it is to buy one-off coverage each time you leave your province for business or pleasure. For as little as $275/year a family of four can be covered for complete medical and non-medical travel insurance for one full year.

Travel Medical Insurance

You might have travel medical insurance coverage from your employer, but it's important to make sure you are fully covered. Nothing would be worse than needing medical coverage while out-of-town and finding out after the fact that your work policy only covers half of the expenses incurred...you could be out-of-pocket several thousand dollars, depending on the nature of your claim. Alternatively, you may think that all of your in-country travel is covered by your provincial plan; but, you might be surprised to learn what this plan pays for when travelling in other provinces. It pays to do your homework and a small yearly fee could be the best money you've ever spent.

Non-Medical Travel Insurance

Even if you are fully covered for medical, it's still a good idea to purchase a non-medical plan that can cover you for trip cancellation, trip interruption and baggage loss. When booking any trip, your travel agent will always offer this type of coverage and it's generally a good idea to make sure that you are covered for these items; however, it's usually cheaper to purchase a yearly plan rather than buy one-off policies each time you travel.

Travel with Confidence

Once you've bought your yearly policy you can rest assured that you, and your family members, are covered for all of your trips – even a 24 hour shopping trip to Buffalo. You'll also get the added advantage of knowing that there will be someone available 24/7 to help you in the case of an emergency.

LUNCH RUSH

STEPHANIE DICKISON
FOOD@METRONEWS.CA

Wvrst, pronounced "verst", has a simple menu: sausages, fries, beer and wine.

Booze, a choice of artesian and game links (Kangaroo! Guinea fowl!) and a cool interior (coral red subway-tiled wall and communal tables) add a unique draw and separate it far from street vendor carts.

Choose your style: On a fresh bun with 2 toppings or sliced with tomato curry sauce and a slice of "country bread." Choose your sausage: Venison ($9) on the bun with caramelized onions and sweet peppers and an Italian Pork ($6) with the sauce, please.

Venison with red pepper/dijon delights (it's not as gamey as you think), but the pork loses its juices when sliced (you miss out on that moist burst when you take a bite). Golden, crisp and salty Duck Fat Fries ($4.50) however, are a must.

It's crazy loud, but fun in here. Just what a sausage hall should be.

Canadian Bacon Bonanza

Preparation:

1. In a bowl, combine bacon and brown sugar, making sure sugar evenly coats both sides of bacon. Place on outdoor grill over medium heat and grill for 3 to 4 minutes per side or until crispy and golden brown. Let cool.
2. For 1 serving: In bowl, combine syrup, 1 strip of crumbled bacon, sea salt. Place ice cream in serving dish. Drizzle with caramel-bacon mix. Garnish with additional bacon and caramel syrup.

THE CANADIAN PRESS/ SMUCKER FOODS OF CANADA

Ingredients:

- 6 strips uncooked bacon
- 50 ml (1/4 cup) brown sugar
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) caramel-flavoured sundae syrup, plus extra for serving
- Sea salt, to taste
- 1 large scoop (about 250 ml/1 cup) maple ice cream
- Additional candied bacon, for garnish (optional)

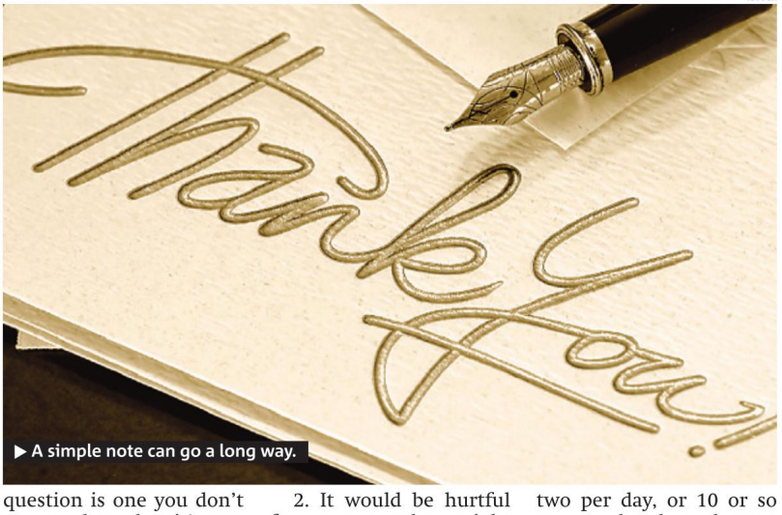
I'm a second-time bride getting married the last week of July. I work full time, will be going on a two-week honeymoon and have two children from a previous marriage to take care of full time. Based on the fact that everyone knows how busy I am, are people honestly expecting me to send thank you notes for their presents?

Carole, Nova Scotia

ISTOCK



▶ A simple note can go a long way.

Hello Carole:

Congratulations on your upcoming wedding! I know the answer to your question is one you don't want to hear, but it's yes, you do need to send everyone a thank you note and here's why:

1. People have gone to the trouble of spending time and money shopping for you — and they are just as busy as you!

2. It would be hurtful for guests who might think that your lack of communication means you don't care or value them or their gift.

That said, don't pressure yourself to write all of the notes at one time. Pace yourself. Send one or two per day, or 10 or so per weekend, and soon enough they will be done — I promise!

As my grandmother taught me, you will never be criticised for sending a thank you note, but you will always be criticised for not sending one!

4 hot career paths

Which of these will capture you some serious cash?

If you've been fantasizing about becoming a farmer or rancher, time to pick another daydream. No other occupation category had a bigger decline, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Twitter strategist or massage therapist? Now you're talking.

Here are four fast-growing jobs that may be of interest to a mixture of new grads and second-career seekers.

ISTOCK

▶ These hot jobs may be of interest to new grads and second-career seekers.

Social media strategist

The social media field is starting to take off, jobwise, as companies embrace a new type of marketing.

Monica Wilson of Dartmouth College's career services office says she's seeing all kinds of job titles that emerged only recently: social media strategist, consultant, manager, director.

Massage therapist

Massage is a young industry that's growing by leaps and bounds as more people learn about the benefits of massage therapy. It's physically and mentally demanding work, but job prospects are bright, the occupation lends itself to part-time and self-employed work, and training is affordable.

Accountant

Accountants now do everything from audits and budgets to financial planning and analysis to advising companies as they create new products and services.

"The (old) role of counting the beans and vouching for the integrity of financial statements is just the minimum now," says Jeff Thomson, CEO of the Institute of Management Accountants.

IT professional

Despite some layoffs and outsourcing of domestic jobs, work in the computer and IT-related fields continues to expand rapidly with no end in sight.

No IT occupation is hotter than network systems and data communications specialist.

SEALING THE DEAL WHEN YOU SIGN

WORKPLACE LAW

DANIEL LUBLIN
DAN@TORONTO-EMPLOYMENTLAWYER.COM
TWITTER: @DANLUBLIN

What happens if a group of just-dismissed, hourly wage employees, who barely speak English, sign a broad-ranging release preventing them from taking further legal action? Does it matter that their former employer paid them next to nothing to sign that release or that the employees feared they would get nothing at all if they refused to sign it? According to a recent human rights decision that amazes even me, the answer is that it does not matter at all!

ISTOCK

▶ Perceived 'duress' is unlikely to invalidate a signed document.

Just-fired from their jobs as general labourers at Global Egg Corporation, a group of 10 Spanish-speaking former employees found themselves in a pickle. Presented with a severance agreement that they claimed not to understand, they were given one week to sign the documents, in exchange for an extra one or two weeks' pay, or they could refuse, in which case they thought they would not receive anything at all.

The group took the documents to the Centre for Spanish Speaking People and spoke with two lawyers from the Centre and an interpreter who explained the requirements of severance and gave them advice about the consequences of refusing to sign the agreement.

After the meeting everyone signed the documents, still fearful that they would not receive any money if they refused to sign. According to the one of the members of the group who testified at the recent hearing, she did not want to sign, but felt that she had no choice since she "needed the money." However, later on, believing the deal they received was discriminatory and unfair, the group complained to the Human Rights Tribunal, arguing that it should be set aside.

In a surprising human rights decision, the tribunal dismissed the claims at a preliminary hearing because of the agreements that were signed. Although the group believed that they would receive nothing unless they signed their names, it was not because of anything their former employer said. The group received advice from lawyers and, however ill-advised, decided to take the deal.

Although this "deal" was unfortunate and paid them less than they would have otherwise received, even a human rights tribunal was not prepared to intervene. This result can be avoided by observing two simple rules:

- Termination packages are negotiable. Seek specialized legal advice before signing your name.
- Ask for more time or the opportunity to meet with a lawyer if the terms of an offer or release are unclear.

What's the "big deal" today? Check your email, Facebook or Twitter and within seconds you'll know it's 50 per cent off rims for your ride or a two-for-one pass to Ashton Kutcher's new flick.

Sites like Groupon get frugal types like me all revved up. They negotiate huge discounts with popular local businesses and pass along savings of 50 to 90 per cent to subscribers.

If you're in the market for a particular product and its price gets slashed, online coupons can save you hundreds of dollars.

Saving money is en vogue and often the topic of water cooler conversation.

But, if you're leading your offices' popularity contest for nabbing the best daily online deal, watch out!

You'll quickly fall from financial grace once your credit card is maxed and you've got nothing more to share with your colleagues.

It's important to ensure you're not spending money unnecessarily simply for the sake of a "sweet deal."

If a fancy trip out to the Fairmont Banff Springs Hotel wasn't part of your travel plans this month, don't buy one.

Sure, it's important to include fun and entertainment in your budget, but not at the expense of building your financial security.

A great deal you can't afford is never a good deal.

More pitfalls of working at home

ON MONEY

ALISON GRIFFITHS
MONEY@METRONEWS.CA

Liberating though it can be, working at home isn't all hanging out in sweats and catching up on daytime TV. Last week I presented seven drawbacks of the home-based job and you readers reminded me of five more.

ISTOCK IMAGES

▶ Alison's money rule: Working at home is a dream for many. Just be aware of the disadvantages before you try it.

1. Lack of spousal support

A spouse who doesn't respect and support what you're doing can turn working at home into a nightmare. In a previous incarnation I had one of those. For instance, reading the papers and magazines, and now browsing the Internet is a big part of my job. But he refused to see it that way, always characterizing it as slacking around. Never mind that he was unemployed!

2. Household chores

Because you work the expectation is you can do household chores, drive kids and aging parents to appointments during your down time. The reality is that down time is limited because you are on your own with no colleagues or assistants to take up the slack. Set boundaries, although it can be tough when family is involved.

3. Kids home sick!

You're home so you can just keep an eye on those sneezing, coughing, feverish kids. Then there are school holidays and snow days, which fall in the lap of the work-at-home parent.

4. Non-custodial drop off

I've never personally experienced this but several readers complained that their ex just drops the kids and says, "You're at home anyway and I've got this big business trip so I thought you could help me out with the kids this month."

It's a tricky situation to deal with in the absence of goodwill and strong communication.

5. Credit scarcity

Banks still look askance at the self-employed. I believe they have a secret, negative category for us.

Assets, sparkling credit score and low debt to income ratio be damned, the work-at-home crowd have a tough time getting things like a business related line of credit without pledging their first born.

I've outlined 12 pitfalls of working at home this week and last. Even so, I wouldn't have it any other way.

On the job

Fifty-four per cent of those who work at home have a university degree.

After the off-season gold rush

After a few weeks of roster moves, which NHL clubs have come out ahead, or been left behind

Winners

MINNESOTA

- The Wild have certainly addressed some of their offensive shortcomings with the additions of Dany Heatley and Devin Setoguchi. They combined for 48 goals a year ago and have shown in the past they are capable of a much higher output.

WASHINGTON

- Not only did Caps GM George McPhee land a proven veteran in Tomas Vokoun — at an extremely cap-friendly price tag of $1.5 million US — he also obtained a potential lottery pick from Colorado for unpredictable goalie Semyon Varlamov.

N.Y. RANGERS

- The addition of Brad Richards doesn't solve all of New York's problems, but it drastically improves the outlook for next year. He will slot in as the No. 1 centre and should make life a little easier for Marian Gaborik.

TORONTO

- Despite immense pressure to start winning immediately, the Leafs have avoided getting in cap trouble by overspending. The team's only free agent signing, Tim Connolly, will strengthen a weak group at centre.

BUFFALO

- They overpaid for defenceman Christian Ehrhoff and forward Ville Leino, but when was the last time you could say that about the Sabres? Buffalo established itself as an off-season winner simply by making a splash in the free agent pool.

Losers

FLORIDA

- To be fair, the Panthers were pretty much in a no-win situation. GM Dale Tallon acknowledged as much at the draft when he said the need to spend up to the $48.3-million US salary floor would actually make his team worse.

PHILADELPHIA

- GM Paul Holmgren has made a habit of doing things his own way. The culture change that comes with the departure of Mike Richards and Jeff Carter probably won't be enough to overcome the drop in talent that accompanies it.

DALLAS

- An uncertain ownership issue has made the job of building a team particularly tough on GM Joe Nieuwendyk, who simply couldn't come up with the kind of offer needed to keep Brad Richards in the fold.

CALGARY

- A team that missed the playoffs a year ago lost veteran defenceman Robyn Regehr in exchange for nothing more than salary cap flexibility. While that certainly has value in today's NHL, GM Jay Feaster has yet to put it to use.

COLORADO

- After letting both of his goaltenders walk away, GM Greg Sherman is taking a bit of a gamble. He is banking on the duo of Semyon Varlamov and J.S. Giguere making his team much better.

REAL TESTIMONIALS
Thank goodness that we listened to my mother-in-law's advise. She knows a lot about saints and hidden things. She saw a black shadow on us and we sent out picture to a witch in our country. He said that the cure was best in person which is why we went to see the Shaman who did cure us. Thanks Shaman.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You should be feeling stronger mentally now.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 You need to be a bit more open with partners and loved ones today.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 If you have been holding back from saying something because you did not want to hurt someone's feelings you will realize that your efforts have been counter productive.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 You will receive good news concerning your cash flow situation today.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Your message is important — make sure it gets through.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You may not much like what you are expected to do today but you are advised to do it anyway.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Your confidence will get a boost today.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You are full of ideas for the future.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You will experience a surge of energy over the next 24 hours that makes all things possible.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 A partnership that is based purely on convenience is unlikely to survive the stresses and strains of the next few days.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You must ask friends for their permission before you do anything that could affect them.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. By all means make changes but don't expect everyone to be happy with them.
